ECLIPSES.

There are five this year, viz: two of the Sun, and three of the Moon.

First, of the Moon, January 6th.

Beginning of the Eclipse,	-	-	1h 22 $\frac{1}{2}$ m morn.
Elliptic conjunction,	-	-	2 25 $\frac{1}{4}$ morn.
Middle of the Eclipse,	-	-	2 33 $\frac{3}{4}$ morn.
End of the Eclipse,	-	-	3 43 $\frac{1}{2}$ morn.

Digits Eclipsed 5° 42', from the southern side of the Earth's shadow, or on the Northern limb of the Moon.

Second, of the Sun, January 20th, invisible. The Sun will be centrally eclipsed on the Meridian, at 4h 16m evening, in Longitude 143° 58', and Latitude 61° 42' south.

Third, of the Moon, July 1st.

The Moon rises Eclipsed,	-	-	7h 19m even.
End of the Eclipse,	-	-	8 57 $\frac{1}{4}$ even.

Digits Eclipsed 10° 18', from the south side of the Earth's shadow, or on the southern limb of the Moon.

Fourth, of the Sun, July 16th, at midnight, between 16th and 17th, therefore invisible.

Fifth, of the Moon, December 26th.

The Moon rises totally Eclipsed.	-	-
End of total darkness,	-	-	5h 0m evening.
End of the Eclipse,	-	-	6 0 evening.

Digits Eclipsed 20° 7' from the south side of the Earth's shadow.

Venus (♀) will be evening star until the 16th of May, then morning star until the end of the year.

11/13

‘You’ve a cowld, Mrs. Leary, dear!’ said one of the Irish haymakers to her crony, ‘Indeed, and its true for you, Mrs. Mahon!’ ‘And where would you get that, honey?’ ‘Sure, and I slept in the field last night, and forgot to shut the gate.’

THE NUPTIALS.

It was the eve of May, the eve too that was to celebrate the bridal of an only sister to wealth, nobility, and virtue. All, to the eye of the superficial observer, wore the aspect of happiness unalloyed, of joy, and earnest congratulation; but to me, who had read that sister's heart, perhaps, ere she had read her own, it was alike indifferent that I beheld the coronet in perspective, or reflected on the distinguished alliance which would elevate my Georgiana to a station she was so well calculated to adorn.

That Georgiana was on the point of resigning her hand, while her heart was in possession of another, I could not doubt; for often had I noted the glistening eye, the deep suffusion, and tremulous tone of her voice, when the name of Arthur Clanronald was announced;—of him, who had been the playmate of our childhood, the friend and intellectual companion of our riper years. I knew, too, she was dear, far dearer to the heart of Clanronald; but the smallness of his patrimony forbade the disclosure of his affection, and apprehensive lest his love should overcome the dictates of prudence, he retired suddenly to a distant part of the country, there to live on the wreck of a once noble fortune, bequeathed by a generous but too prodigal sire. Forsaken by her once-valued friend, left in doubt to the reality of his sentiments, Georgiana's pride took alarm; she

BEAUTIFUL EXTRACT.

It cannot be that earth is man's only abiding place. It cannot be that our life is only a bubble, cast up by the ocean of eternity, to float a moment upon its waves, and sink into nothingness. Else, why is it, the high and glorious aspirations, which leap like angels from the temple of our hearts, are forever wandering about unsatisfied? Why is it that the rainbow and the cloud come over us with a beauty that is not of earth, and then pass off and leave us to muse upon their faded loveliness? Why is it that the stars which 'hold their festival around the midnight throne,' are set above the grasp of our limited faculties: forever mocking us with their unapproachable glory? And finally, why is it that bright forms of human beauty are presented to our view and then taken from us; leaving the thousand streams of our affections to flow back in Alpine torrents upon our hearts? We are born for a higher destiny than that of earth. There is a realm where the rainbow never fades—where the stars will be spread out before us like the islands that slumber on the ocean, and where the beautiful beings which here pass before us like shadows, will stay in our presence forever.

Distances of the Planets.

The vast extent of the solar system is but vaguely to be conceived from the ordinary mode of stating it in millions of miles. To demonstrate it in a more striking and impressive manner, a continental astronomer has proposed, or rather renewed the proposal, that the computed distances of the planets be measured by comparison with the velocity of a cannon ball, rated at $3\frac{1}{2}$ German mile per minute. With this velocity, a cannon ball fired from the sun, would reach the planet Mercury in 9 years and 6 months; Venus in 18 years; the earth in 25 years, Mars in 38; Jupiter in 130; Saturn in 238; and Uranus (Herschel) in 479 years. With the same velocity a shot would reach the moon from the earth in 23 days—little more than three weeks.

GOOD HUMOUR.—Good humour is the fair weather of the soul, which calms the turbulent gust of passion, and diffuses a perpetual gladness & serenity over the heart; and he who finds his temper naturally inclined to break out into sudden bursts of fretfulness and ill humour, should be as much upon his guard to repress the storm, that is forever beating in his mind, as to fence against the inclemencies of the seasons. We are naturally attached even to animals that betray a softness of disposition. We are pleased with the awkward fondness and fidelity of a dog.—Anon.

FROM THE NEW-ENGLAND FARMER.

If you wish to be always thirsty, be a Drunkard; for the oftener and more you drink, the oftener and more thirsty you will be.

If you wish to repel the endeavors of the whole human race to raise you to character, credit, and prosperity, be a Drunkard; and you will most assuredly triumph.

If you are determined to be poor, be a Drunkard; and you will soon be ragged and penniless.

If you would wish to starve your family, be a Drunkard; for that will consume the means of their support.

If you would wish to unfit yourself for rational intercourse, be a Drunkard; for that will render you wholly unfit for it.

If you would expose both your folly and secrets, be a Drunkard; & they will soon run out, as the liquers run in.

If you would get rid of your money without knowing how, be a Drunkard; and it will vanish insensibly.

If you are determined to expel all comfort from your house, be a Drunkard; and you will soon do it effectually.

If you would be always under strong suspicion, be a Drunkard; for, little as you think it, all agree that those who steal from themselves and families will rob others.

If you would be reduced to the necessity of shunning your creditors, be a Drunkard; and you will soon have reason to prefer by-paths to the public streets.

If you would be a dead weight on the community, and "cumber the ground," be a Drunkard; for that will render you useless, helpless, burthensome and expensive.

If you do not wish your faults reformed, continue to be a Drunkard; and you will not care for good advice.

If you wish all your prospects in life to be clouded, be a Drunkard; and they will soon be dark enough.

Finally, if you are determined to be utterly destroyed, in estate, body, and soul, be a Drunkard; and you will soon know that it is impossible to adopt a more effectual mode to accomplish your—END.

To make boots and shoes water proof, put four ounces of India rubber cut fine into a tight vessel, and add to it one quart of neat's foot oil, keep it in some place where it will be moderately warm until the rubber is dissolved, then apply it to your boots and shoes, and you need not be afraid of wet feet, unless you get into water over the tops.

ORIGIN OF NEWSPAPERS.

After the defeat of the Spanish Armada intended by Philip II. of Spain for the invasion of England, great interest being excited in every class, which gave rise to a very important invention—that of Newspapers.—Previous to this period, all articles of intelligence had been circulated in manuscript, and all the political remarks which the government found itself interested in addressing the people, had issued in the shape of pamphlets. But the peculiar convenience at such a juncture, of uniting these two objects, in a periodical publication, becoming obvious to the ministry, there appeared sometime in the month of April, 1588, the first number of the English Mercury, a paper resembling the present English Gazette, which must have come out almost daily, since No. 50, the earliest specimen of the work now extant, is dated July 23d of the same year. This interesting article is preserved in the British Museum.

By this statement it appears that it is now 244 years since the first newspaper was published in England.—This was in the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

PERSONAL APPEARANCE.

This is one of those things of accident, resting with nature. No man or woman can form their own persons, and none should be praised or blamed on this head. The disposition for looking well, is ruining half the young people in the world—causing them to study their glasses, and paint or patch, instead of pursuing that which is lasting and solid—the cultivation of the mind. It is always a mark of a weak mind, if not a bad heart, to hear a person praise or blame another on the ground alone that they are handsome or homely. Actions should be the test—and a liberal source of conduct pursued to all. It matters little whether a man is tall or short—whether the blood stains the cheek or runs in another channel. Fashion makes the difference as to beauty. The lily is sweet if not so gay as the rose, and it bears no thorn about it. As to appearance, fashion should not be allowed to bear upon that which cannot be changed, except by deception, and what indeed, in reality, is not worth the trouble of being so, even if it could.

The sight of a white man in Africa is much more homely than that of an African here—and in Scotland at one time according to Walter Scott, the fashion to judge of a handsome man was in a broad face and a red nose.

DELAYS.

Shun delays, they breed remorse,
Take thy time while time is lent thee,
Creeping snails have weakest force,
Fly their fault lest thou repent thee;
Good is best when soonest wrought,
Lingering labours come to nought.

Hoist up sail while gale doth last,
Tide and wind stay no man's pleasure;
Seek not time when time is past,
Sober speed is wisdom's leisure,
After wits are dearly bought;
Let thy fore-wit guide thy thought.

Time wears all his locks before,
Take thou hold upon his forehead,
When he flies he turns no more,
And behind his scalp is naked;
Works adjourned have many stays;
Long demurs breed new delays.

PRIDE.

The proud heart is the first to sink beneath contempt—it feels the wound more keenly than others can. Oh there is nothing in language can express the deep humiliation of being received with coldness when kindness is expected—of seeing the look, but half concealed, of strong disapprobation from such as we have cause to think beneath us, not alone in vigour of mind and spirit but even in virtue and truth. The weak, the base, the hypocrite, are the first to turn with indignation from their fellow mortals in disgrace; and whilst the really chaste and pure suspect with caution, and censure with mildness, these traffickers in petty sins, who plume themselves upon their immaculate conduct, sound the alarm bell at the approach of guilt, and clamour their anathemas upon their unwary and cowering prey.
